Cantor Colburn Partner Curtis Krechevsky Nominated to *International Who's Who of Trademark Lawyers 2012

Hartford, Connecticut—Curtis Krechevsky, Partner and Chair of the Trademark and Copyright Department at Cantor Colburn LLP, is among the world's leading practitioners of trademark law in the 2012 edition of The International Who's Who of Trademark Lawyers. Mr. Krechevsky was nominated for this distinction by his peers. According to the publication, the lawyers who receive this honor "can be considered to be experts in their specialist areas of Trademark law."

Cantor Colburn's trademark practice continues to thrive and is ranked #23 for issued U.S. trademark registrations in 2011, up from #135 five years ago, an 83% increase (Intellectual Property Today, May 2011). The Trademark & Copyright Department attorneys counsel and represent domestic, international, and multinational clients, ranging from individual entrepreneurs and small startups to Fortune 100 corporations, in a host of diverse businesses and industries, and in all areas of trademark and copyright law.

Mr. Krechevsky focuses his practice on trademarks, unfair competition, copyrights, rights of publicity and privacy, Internet, advertising, marketing, promotions, licensing, and trade secrets law. Mr. Krechevsky has represented businesses from a broad range of industries, including high-technology, entertainment, and consumer products. Prior to joining Cantor Colburn, Mr. Krechevsky was both in-house counsel and in private practice, handling national and international trademark and copyright matters. He is a frequent speaker and author on trademark and copyright issues. He served as a law clerk to Judge Zita L. Weinshienk, United States District Court, District of Colorado, in Denver, Colorado. He is admitted in Massachusetts and Colorado, as well as in various federal appeals and district courts. Mr. Krechevsky has a law degree from Harvard University and a bachelor's in Political Science from Yale University.
