Cantor Colburn LLP / CCAT Innovation Pipeline Awards to be presented September 17, 2009

Hartford, Conn.— The Cantor Colburn LLP / CCAT Innovation Pipeline Awards will be presented on September 17, 2009, to recognize emerging technology companies who are judged to have an outstanding technology product or service which is either in beta or is already being sold in the marketplace. Cantor Colburn LLP, an intellectual property boutique law firm, has sponsored the awards since they were launched three years ago by the Connecticut Technology Council (CTC), the state's industry association for the technology sector. The Connecticut Center for Advanced Technology is co-sponsor of the awards.

The CTC annually recognizes companies with sales under $5 million, offering an innovative product or service and a business model that demonstrates potential for future success. Over 70 companies will be featured in a mini trade show or poster fair before the awards ceremony. Awards will be presented in eight categories ranging from the Most Promising New Software Product to the Most Promising New Green Technology Company.

"This is an exciting event because these companies are developing cutting-edge technologies that represent the future of our economy," said Michael Cantor, co-managing partner of Cantor Colburn. "With cultivation and support, they have the potential to be major technology companies, located right here in Connecticut."

Tickets are $50 and $55 for this evening event at the Omni Hotel in New Haven. The public is invited to meet the companies and see who the winners are. For more information about the Cantor Colburn LLP / CCAT Innovation Pipeline Awards, or to attend this event, please visit the Connecticut Technology Council's Web site at www.ct.org.
