Governor Appoints Cantor Colburn Attorney Greg O'Bradovich to the Georgia World Congress Center Authority

Atlanta—Governor Nathan Deal has appointed Greg J. O'Bradovich, an associate with Cantor Colburn LLP, to the Board of Governors of the George L. Smith II Georgia World Congress Center Authority (GWCCA). Located in the heart of downtown Atlanta, the GWCCA -- which includes the 3.9 million square foot convention center, the 71,250-seat Georgia Dome and 21-acre Centennial Olympic Park -- ranks among the top five largest convention destinations in the country as well as one of the best sports and entertainment campuses in the world.

O'Bradovich will serve a four year term with the GWCCA. He has been practicing patent law for thirteen years. He earned a bachelor's in Physics from Fordham University, a master's degree in Electrical Engineering from Purdue University and a law degree from the University of Texas. He is admitted to the state bars of Georgia and New York and is registered to practice before the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

The State of Georgia established the GWCCA to develop and operate the Georgia World Congress Center, the Georgia Dome, Centennial Olympic Park, and related facilities. These facilities exist for the primary purpose of promoting and facilitating events and activities that generate economic benefits to the citizens of the State of Georgia and the City of Atlanta as well as enhance the quality of life for Georgians.

Cantor Colburn is one of the largest full service intellectual property law firms in the country, with growing offices in Atlanta, Washington, D.C., Houston, Hartford, and Detroit. In recent rankings, Cantor Colburn is 9th in the country for patent filings and 20th for trademarks. The firm's clients are among the leading companies in the United States and around the world, including Fortune 100 companies, privately held companies, select high-tech start-ups, and universities.
