

Andrew Levitt and Liam Evans Join Cantor Colburn's Washington, D.C. Office

February 7, 2020 - Cantor Colburn LLP, the #4 patent law firm in the country, welcomes Andrew Levitt as Associate Patent Attorney and Liam Evans as Patent Agent to the firm's Washington, D.C. office.

"We are excited to welcome new talent into the DC office. Liam and Andrew are a vibrant addition to Cantor Colburn LLP, and we look forward to their contributions to our DC team," said Jenae Gureff, Managing Partner of the firm's Washington office.

Andrew Levitt's practice includes patent prosecution, invalidity and non-infringement opinions, prior art, clearance, freedom-to-operate searches as well as patent landscape studies, with a focus on biological sciences, pharmaceutical sciences, biochemistry, and biomedical instruments and methods. He is admitted to the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and to the Virginia Bar. He graduated from the George Washington University with a B.A. Biological Sciences in 2011 and the University Honors Program of the William & Mary Law School, cum laude, in 2019. He previously did coursework at the John Hopkins University in the Ph.D. program for Biological Sciences. Andrew is a voting member of the Intellectual Property Owners Association Pharmaceutical & Biotechnology Issues, Patent Search, and Diversity & Inclusion IPO committees for the 2020–21 term.

Liam Evans is a patent agent focusing on the fields of materials science and polymers, specifically on matters related to chemical engineering, nanomaterials, bioimaging, and soil polymers. Before joining Cantor Colburn, his undergraduate research in the Institute of Materials Science at the University of Connecticut focused on developing a nanodisc platform for drug delivery and bioimaging applications. He graduated from the University of Connecticut with a B.S. Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering in 2019, and a minor in Spanish, where he was admitted to the Alpha Lambda Delta Honors Society. He was a Scholarship Director and Founding Father of the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity. Since 2016, he has been active with UConn's HuskyTHON, a nonprofit that works year-round to raise money for Connecticut Children's Medical Center.
